

Building tomorrow's partnership today.

As we are all working through the current environment and are facing an exceptional period of uncertainty, we wanted to send you a quick update. For us at TPN, the health and safety of our participants, partners, and staff are paramount. We are, therefore, postponing all face-to-face meetings for the time being, following public health advice on both sides of the Atlantic.

At the same time, we want to make sure that our activities can continue to develop ideas for the Transatlantic Partnership. To that end, we hope to have your active involvement and input as we develop the following activities to contribute towards a constructive US/EU agenda:

Transatlantic Vision 2030 Exercise

As the five think pieces are now available with their short executive summaries, we are posting them on the private side of the TPN website (www.tponline.org). We very much welcome your thoughts, ideas, and practical, actionable recommendations on these topics. The username is TPN Member, and the password is %92tPn20#. It will be valid until Friday, 8th May. The result of such input will be a short interim report which we will present to Transatlantic Week 2020 with key ideas relevant to the Transatlantic Partnership in the years ahead.

Virtual meetings

We are now actively considering the development of virtual meetings to brainstorm ideas arising from these papers in order to refine, enhance and generate new ideas and recommendations. As a number of discussions have taken place in Brussels over the past few months, we will ensure that opportunities for US input are also available.

Transatlantic Week 2020

At present, we are still aiming to hold our Transatlantic Week 2020 in Washington, DC from Monday, 20th July to Wednesday, 22nd July 2020. We are closely monitoring the situation and will keep you updated on the event and possible postponement.

We will resume face-to-face discussions when it is safe to do so. In the meanwhile, we will continue to adapt our programming to the changing circumstances and focus on building up our autumn programme when we should once again return to normal operations. We look forward to your active engagement and ideas. If you would like to discuss any questions or ideas that you may have, then please do not hesitate to contact me at mark.titterington@tpnonline.org or Jorn Fleck at jorn.fleck@tpnonline.org.

In the meanwhile, wishing you safe, healthy, and better days.
